Laclede files Chapter 11 St. Louis company seeks Madison facility

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

While Laclede Steel Co. regroups financially, a St. Louis steel company wants to buy the Alton business's nearly empty facility in Madison.

Laclede, trapped with aging steel mills and foreign steel dumping, filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy Monday morning. Few are left at the Madison building, where Laclede laid off a number of employees in August.

Omega Steel Co. Inc. in St. Louis is currently in negotiations with Laclede to purchase the Madison facility, said Omega spokesman Paul Everett.

"We put a bid on the property and it's tied up in issues," he said. He declined to say what those issues were.

"We put in an offer, they countered, and we countered, and that's where we're at right now," Everett said.

The Madison facility now runs on a skeleton staff. Most employees were offered jobs in Alton during the summer, but, as testament to Laclede's troubles, they lost their jobs four weeks after being hired.

"We took the ultimate right up the old pooper," said one former employee who declined to be identified. The employees were told they had to go through the hiring process to go to the mill.

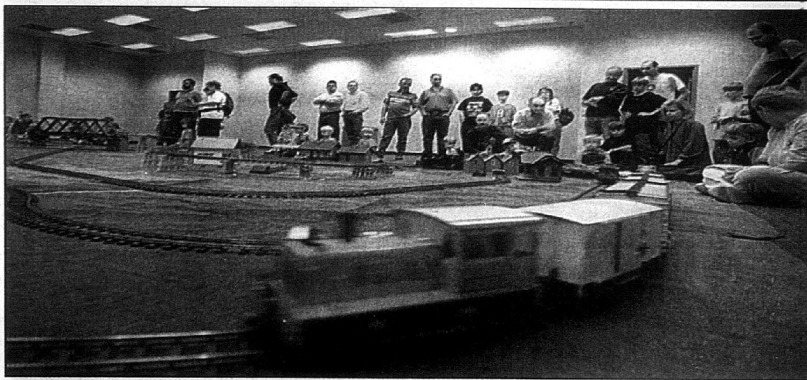

They took physicals Aug. 31, started work on Sept. 15 and were laid off Oct. 9.

The reason they were given was a lack of work.

"They didn't say it was a layoff. We were the only people not in a protected group. I've got five years of pay stubs that they otherwise, but that's what the union agreed (to)," he said.

Meanwhile, Laclede officials were optimistic about reorganizing under court supervision, but the bankruptcy filing cast the Alton plant's 850 employees into doubt and worry.

Train show attracts enthusiasts Area club takes hobby, romance to the people

Matthew Augustin, a 1-year-old from Highland, was getting excited. "Train," he yelled, as the G-scale steam engine passed him by. Matthew and his sister, Elizabeth, 4, were laying down along the track at the Southern Illinois Train Club's track layout, which took up most of the floor of one of the conference rooms at the Gateway Center in Collinsville. The Great American Train Show pulled into town Saturday and Sunday, drawing everybody from parents with small children to serious collectors and railroad enthusiasts. For children, the Southern Illinois

Train Club's layout was one of the most attractive displays.

Unlike most — which were safely roped off or glassed in to protect from small hands — the club's layout was set on the floor, where parents and grandparents had to remind

Papa: Vendetta causing friction Bathon: Frandsen appointment already a 'done deal'

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Madison County Board Chairman Rudy Papa says a personal vendetta is the cause of recent wrangling between two county Democrats.

"Fred Bathon has a personal vendetta against Jack Frandsen. You have to ask Bathon about it. It's personal," Papa said.

But Bathon says he's irritated by what he calls Papa's "done deal" to name an unqualified candidate as his successor. Bathon, 43, says there are several county employees who are more qualified than Frandsen, a 27-year veteran of the county board.

Frandsen says he's qualified for the auditor position and recently fired back by questioning Bathon's own qualifications. Bathon called a press conference in his office on Monday to respond.

"I have a degree in accounting from Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville. Jack has no formal training," Bathon said. "Jack is absolutely, without question, the worst candidate."

If Papa is re-elected as county board chairman on Monday, he'll appoint the new auditor. He has five candidates, including Frandsen, but said he didn't want to name them yet for various reasons.

The Cancun Mexican Restaurant at Eastport Plaza in Collinsville is a popular Mexican eatery. This restaurant and another in Swansea were the subjects of a recent raid by immigration authorities that resulted in the deportation of 11 workers.

11 area restaurant workers deported Charges not filed against owners

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Following a court appearance Monday, 11 former employees of a Mexican restaurant with locations in Collinsville and Swansea are on their way back to Mexico.

The Mexican nationals pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges that they illegally entered the United States. The defendants had been in the custody of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service since Nov. 17. That's when they were arrested at the Cancun Mexican Restaurants.

Federal search warrants were executed at both the Collinsville restaurant, 8 Eastport Plaza, and the Swansea location on Illinois 159. Cancun officials were not available for comment.

The defendants were sentenced to time served and received five years of probation with the condition that they not illegally re-enter the U.S. They were turned over to INS for deportation proceedings.

According to the U.S. attorney's office, illegal re-entry could result in up to five years in prison for violating the probation and up to two additional years for a second offense.

In addition to the INS, the Internal Revenue Service, the Office of Inspector General, the Social Security Administration and the Illinois State Police participated in the investigation.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Joel V. Merkel said no charges have been filed against the owners and he could not comment on whether the matter was still under investigation in light of the fact that this has happened before at Cancun's.

"That is something we consider and look at," Merkel said. In October 1997, the INS executed search warrants at the Collinsville and Swansea Cancun restaurants as well as a third location at Northwest Plaza in St. Louis.

In that incident, 36 employees — 14 in Collinsville and 11 each at the other locations — were detained by INS authorities.

Two arrested after spree Teens accused of smashing car windows

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Two Granite City teens stand accused of damaging property by using concrete to smash the rear windows of 13 cars last weekend.

Michael K. Kendall, 18, of the 2100 block of Bryan, and Robert C. Pittman, 19, of the 2400 block of Missouri, were charged Monday with criminal damage to property.

According to police reports, police received numerous complaints from residents who reported similar damage to their vehicles sometime between Friday night and Saturday morning.

The rear windows were smashed with a chunk of concrete, and many cars had scratches on their rear hoods and broken front windshields.

Acting on information provided by residents, police found Pittman in a red Pontiac Grand Am parked on Bryan. The officer questioned a nervous Pittman and observed what looked like bits of concrete on the front seat. He also noticed a huge Taco Bell banner and a "Let Mitchell Vote" sign in the back seat.

Pittman consented to a search of the car. The officer also found a small chunk of concrete, pieces of broken glass and a bundle of St. Louis Post-Dispatch newspapers dated Sunday, Nov. 28. Both Pittman and Kendall were then arrested.

According to reports, cars were damaged on the 2700 block of Michigan, the 2600 block of State, on 27th Street between Cleveland and Delgado, the 2800 block of Benton, 1300 block of Norwood, the 2300 block of West 24th, the 2300 block of Benton, at a house on Briarcliff, the 2700 block of Denver, the 2800 block of Harding, the 2000 block of Benton, on Parktower West and the 4900 block of Trails End.

As of Monday evening, both were in custody in Granite City Jail. Circuit Judge Charles Romani Jr. set bail for both at $50,000.

OPINION

Is it corruption or business?

Politicians, as a class, tend to think pretty highly of themselves. For the most part, they are tireless, underappreciated, even underpaid workers on behalf of the public good who only want to make life better for the fine folks who elected them.

Okay, okay, it's not polite to laugh at the deluded.

Actually, I think that most politicians mean well, but they are often amazingly naive about how their behavior confirms the public's worst suspicions about them.

For instance, I've asked several legislators over the years about the ethics of regularly accepting expensive dinners from Springfield lobbyists. I'm not talking about the occasional perk, mind you, I mean the people who go out on a regular basis on somebody else's tab.

Their responsive is always the same: "My vote can't be bought for a steak and couple of beers!"

They usually seem offended that anyone would ask such a question, even though the public's gut reaction is that this is at least improper, if not somehow corrupt.

The truth is, nobody sells their souls for dinner at a swank restaurant. And, contrary to popular myth, lobbyists don't carry around envelopes stuffed with cash to slip to politicians under the table. Instead, what happens is legislators and lobbyists take advantage of each other, occasionally corrupting themselves a little bit without even realizing it.

Legislators spend their days being treated like very important people. After awhile, many of them conclude that they truly are consequential enough to deserve the royal treatment.

So, of course, it's okay to make some interest group pick up the tab for a nice dinner. Some eventually wind up as terminal moochers who can't eat a meal or consume a cold beverage without somebody else paying for it.

It's considered very bad form to use the occasion of a freebie dinner to ask for a legislator's vote, so lobbyists will talk about anything of mutual interest — golf, families, college tuition, spouses — except for the bills that they have in the hopper. Since no business is discussed, it's easy to assume that the whole thing is completely harmless, and over time, lobbyists develop personal relationships with legislators.

Most proposals that move through the Statehouse are pretty small potatoes. Issues like abortion, gun control and tax increases are the exception, not the rule. More often than not, you might think legislators have no clue about which way they should vote on bills, and sometimes they simply don't care whether a bill passes or not.

And that's where the benefit of a personal relationship between a lobbyist and a legislator comes in. It's not easy to vote against a friend, particularly if you don't really care about the bill in question and the lobbyist does. Inevitably, many legislators find themselves voting for legislation for the wrong reason.

Most of the time, these legislator-lobbyist relationships are harmless. And if no real damage was being caused by after-hours relationships between legislators and lobbyists, the General Assembly would be justified in ignoring a gift ban. But that's not the case.

Just last fall, the House accidentally voted to get the cable television industry out from under a multi-million dollar lawsuit based on the word of a cable industry lobbyist. The industry had built up plenty of "good will" in Springfield by throwing a lavish party every year and giving away expensive stuffed Disney toys (not contributions).

House members believed him when he said they were voting on a "pro-consumer" bill, but nobody apparently thought to check what the legislation did. Oops. They found out what they had done a few days later when a Chicago newspaper splashed the story all over its front page.

Then there's Management Services of Illinois (MSI), a corrupt state contractor that handed out expensive freebies like candy at a Fourth of July parade.

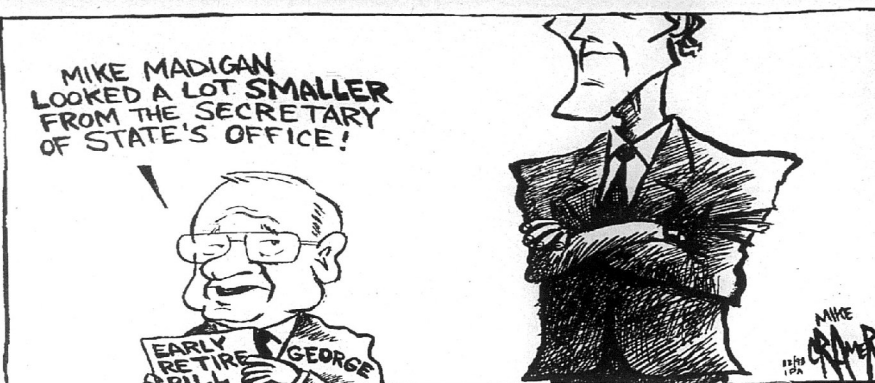

Several Senate Republicans and members of their staff were often on the receiving end of the company's generosity, and they returned the favor by pressing agency honchos to cooperate with their friends. It's no coincidence that a half-dozen Democrats ran against incumbent senators pledging to accept gifts of any kind from the lobbyists if they are elected.

Will banning gifts stop legislators and lobbyists from developing personal relationships that could influence members' votes? No solution is perfect, but if nothing else, a ban would put a lid on the Statehouse's distasteful mooch culture.

It certainly can't do any harm, except maybe to some politicians' bank accounts.

Illinois farmers need our help

By Sen. Dick Durbin

Illinois is one of our country's most important agricultural contributors. Illinois farmland, which accounts for about 27 million acres, is considered some of the most productive in the world.

More than 76,000 farm families in the state produce corn, soybeans, wheat, beef, pork, dairy products and specialty crops. Illinois exports more than $3.4 billion worth of agricultural products every year.

The state's agribusiness activity is vibrant. Throughout Illinois, agricultural processing employs thousands of people. In addition, researchers at the University of Illinois and other institutions continue to provide answers to some of the most common, as well as the most complex, agricultural questions we face.

With that said, the current downturn of agricultural prices is troubling, not just for the Illinois economy, but for the farm families who work to ensure that the state of Illinois, the country and the world enjoy a safe and abundant food supply.

This fall, I have had visits from many agriculture groups in the state. I have heard how farm income will fall to $42.5 billion in 1998, 20 percent lower than 1996, and 43 percent below the five-year average. Meanwhile, total farm debt in 1998 has been estimated at $172 billion, the highest level since 1985. This decline in farm income could lead to massive job loss in the agriculture sector and in agribusiness — not to mention what it will do to our family farms.

In September, I hosted a roundtable discussion with 15 farmers in Springfield to talk about the crisis in our state and across the nation. It was clear during the meeting that falling prices, the uncertainty of foreign markets — particularly in Asia and Russia — and poor weather conditions have contributed significantly to a severe economic crisis for our nation's farmers.

With such low prices, I worry that farmers will not be able to survive. Whether this means leaving farming altogether or simply not being able to make basic payments, I fear a crisis in rural America. And farmers won't be the only ones hurt by this crisis. In the past several weeks, two of the world's largest agricultural equipment manufacturers, Deere and Company based in Moline, and CASE Corporation based in Racine, Wis., have announced plans to reduce production and cut jobs. Both companies claim declining farm prices have reduced demand for their equipment. When American agriculture suffers, the effect is widespread, from equipment manufacturers to processors to local businesses.

Congress needs to demonstrate strong leadership in the face of this economic crisis. There are some short-term solutions that have already been considered by the U.S. Senate, including removing the cap on marketing loans and extending their terms, authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to make emergency storage payments to farmers to encourage the use of marketing assistance loans and replenishing the disaster reserve. These should continue to be options to improve economic conditions and regain stability.

Previously, I joined 42 of my Senate colleagues in voting against the Agriculture Appropriations Conference Report. This measure simply underfunded emergency assistance for farmers having severe losses and record-low prices. President Bill Clinton vetoed this legislation because of these shortcomings.

As a result of this veto, Congress and the Clinton Administration came together to hash out a compromise. A farm relief package was included in the recently enacted budget agreement that will address the severe economic downturn in rural America. This package includes $6 billion for emergency assistance to farmers, or about 1 percent more than the vetoed bill.

Specifically, it includes funding for crop loss and economic loss due to low commodity prices and targeted tax relief, including acceleration of the health insurance tax deduction for the self-employed, to 100 percent by 2003. Illinois can expect to receive $319 million for producers as a result of this agreement, $133 million more than the vetoed bill.

There are some administrative fixes that can also help lessen the economic pain for farmers. I'm leading a bipartisan effort to convince Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman to make pork available as food aid to foreign countries and for domestic feeding programs.

This is one way to help reverse falling pork prices caused by market glut and financial crisis in Russia and Asia, important Illinois and U.S. trading partners.

Congress won't be able to single-handedly solve this serious economic crisis in rural America. This year, it will take a coordinated effort both in Washington and on farms across the country. We should act in a comprehensive and bipartisan fashion.

We should explore short-term fixes, like lifting the cap on marketing loans, as well as long-term solutions, like tax fairness, expanded trade opportunities. We should stand up for the men and women in rural America and let them know that Congress and the administration will work with them to help alleviate some of the economic uncertainty they face.

To do anything less would be a disservice to our farmers and American agriculture.

Dick Durbin, D-Ill., is a U.S. senator.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Assisted living helps seniors

To The Editor:

As seniors share the holidays with family and friends, the most common reason offered for thanks is their continued independence.

Often times, seniors are forced into traditional nursing homes before they need nursing care, because they fear living alone, they need a little help with personal care tasks, or simply someone to check on them. For these seniors, there is hope — a new type of congregate housing called Assisted Living.

Sadly, Illinois has not made assisted living a priority. Because Illinois has failed to pass legislation regulating assisted living facilities, a crisis has occurred.

In addition, the development of assisted living programs in Illinois lags behind other states, absent a licensure code to stimulate the industry.

The Illinois legislature has an opportunity to change this by calling SB743, the Assisted Living and Shared Housing Establishment Act, this fall.

Please call your state representative today and ask them to provide more seniors with the opportunity to remain independent longer by calling SB743 for a vote.

Judge throws out one Derr murder verdict

Lawyers plan motion on other decision

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

A judge let stand one murder verdict against a local man Monday but threw out a second.

Attorneys for John Derr, 40, of Granite City, pleaded to file post-trial motions within 30 days to set aside the conviction and take the case to the appellate court if necessary.

A jury on Nov. 19 found Derr guilty of two counts of murder and one count of involuntary manslaughter and concealing a homicidal death in the Aug. 14, 1992, killing of Dennis Oberbeck, the former manager of Geno's 140 Club in Bethalto. The trial lasted just two days.

Associate Circuit Judge Ann Callis threw a wrench in the verdict when she agreed with defense attorneys Thomas Hilbrand and Art Margulis that it was inconsistent to find Derr guilty of both murder and involuntary manslaughter. However, she gave the prosecutor until Monday to prove his case.

In a brief filed Monday, Assistant State's Attorney Don Weber argued that the manslaughter count was based on reckless disregard for personal actions that could lead to death, which is not inconsistent with felony murder, a murder that occurs during the commission of another crime.

Derr was charged with two counts of felony murder based on his alleged robbery and intimidation of Oberbeck. Derr allegedly took a ring and watch from Oberbeck by force the night he was killed, allegedly over a bad debt.

Callis said that after reviewing the case she would let the murder verdict regarding robbery stand. But in her mind, the state did not prove that Derr was "intimidating" Oberbeck at the time of the killing, which took place at a vacant house in Granite City with no other witnesses present.

Derr's ex-wife testified that she saw Derr with the jewelry after Oberbeck's death, but testimony regarding the intimidation was limited to eyewitness accounts of Derr's actions while with Oberbeck at Geno's 140 Club hours before his killing.

Weber maintained that the intimidation had occurred throughout the evening and was part of the cause of Oberbeck's death.

"If the person dies during (the course of another crime), then you're guilty of felony murder," Weber said.

Granite City choir reaches McDonald's gospel finals

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A Granite City church choir will be competing for up to $12,000 in prizes in the annual McDonald's Gospel Celebration.

The choir from First United Pentecostal Church in Granite City was among the 10 finalists in the competition Nov. 21 at San Francisco Temple Christian Assembly in St. Louis. Choir Director Kathy Hubbard said Monday she was still trying to decide what songs to do for the final competition, set for 7 p.m. Dec. 12 at the Scottish Rite Auditorium, located at 3633 Lindell Blvd. in St. Louis.

"I'm not 100 percent sure yet," Hubbard said. "I'm working on it though."

Gospel diva Vicki Winans

will emcee the final competition, which is free to the public. It will also be taped and aired on "Singsation," a gospel show for Chicago-based cable superstation WGN, which is available on Charter Communications in the Granite City area.

For the semifinals, the choir performed "Let Your Anointing Fall on Me," "We Give You Glory" and "God Gave Me A Song."

The 20 choirs chosen to perform at the semifinals event received the most votes from the community. This summer, more than 600 choirs were nominated by customers who completed entry forms from St. Louis-area McDonald's restaurants.

More than 79,000 votes were cast in October and more than 1,000 people attended the semifinal competition. Choirs were judged on vocal quality, clarity of sound, song selection and stage presence.

"We felt like the Lord really blessed us," Hubbard said. "We're just looking forward to going and participating. We want to be a blessing."

In addition to performing on television, the choirs are competing for $25,000 in prizes, including $10,000 for first place, $5,000 for second, $2,500 for third and $2,000 for the best choir director.

The event will also feature the awarding of the McDonald's Dedicated Leadership Award, a $5,000 grant to a community leader for their work, entrepreneurial drive, dedication and selfless commitment to the community. The recipient will donate the monetary award.

Area glassware company sues Bank of Edwardsville

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

A longtime area glassware business is suing the Bank of Edwardsville and two of its officers, claiming their banking practices led to its bankruptcy.

Intaglio Designs Ltd., formerly known as Levis Inc., is suing the bank for breach of contract, fraud, civil conspiracy, consumer fraud and deceptive business practices and breach of fiduciary duty.

The bank's executive vice president, William S. Alexander, is named in all aspects of the suit, except the breach of contract count. The bank's vice president of loans, Roger L. Huber, is named only in the counts dealing with consumer fraud, deceptive business practices and civil conspiracy.

Each count in the five-count suit seeks actual damages in excess of $2.5 million and punitive damages as determined in court. A jury trial is being sought.

The bank and the two officers declined comment.

"We really can't comment on litigation," Bank President Robert Wetzel said. "But I think the bank's 130-year record speaks for itself."

The lawsuit is told almost in narrative form, with the emphasis on how the bank's practices since 1979 allegedly caused Intaglio president Gary W. Levis and his wife, Dolores A. Levis, to file for Chapter 11 bankruptcy on Feb. 10, 1997.

The Levis own Intaglio Designs, a developer, manufacturer and distributor of art glass and giftware that, for the last several years, has operated at 1320 Milton Road in Alton.

For 15 years before Intaglio's incorporation in 1985, the Levis operated an antique and glassware manufacturing business at 209 E. Vandalia St. in Edwardsville.

Levis said that the company is now out of bankruptcy, but he declined to say much beyond the suit.

"There's a lot of things I'd like to say, but they are going to have to wait for court," he said.

According to the lawsuit, the Levis relationship with the bank began in the early 1970s, when they borrowed money to purchase the Vandalia Street property.

In the late 1970s, their accounts were assigned to Alexander, who then became the bank's senior vice president and a friend from boyhood of Gary Levis, the lawsuit says.

The lawsuit uses 25 pages and several bank memorandums to illustrate how the Levis placed their confidence in Alexander's ability to handle their banking and loans.

That trust began to unravel after 1991, when Alexander allegedly used two Small Business Administration loans obtained by the Levis to buy back bank loans and reduce the couple's line of credit, the lawsuit claims.

Alexander had urged the couple to apply for the Small Business Administration loans, but led the Levis to believe that the money would be used for capital.

Granite man charged after fires begin

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

A Granite City man was charged with arson and aggravated arson Monday for allegedly setting several small fires at a home where he was staying.

Ricky R. Wallace, 27, of the 2700 block of Lincoln was staying at another person's home. While the mother was taking Wallace's brother home, Wallace began burning things, according to Granite City police.

Reports said that the mother returned home and smelled something burning. She first asked her son and son's friend if anything was burning, and they said no. She asked Wallace, who also said no.

She found clothing on fire in the utility room. Unable to douse the flames with water, she carried the burning items outside, and suffered burns to her arms.

She left to find Wallace and left her son and friend to make sure Wallace didn't start any more fires. Soon, both mother and son found Wallace hiding in the garage and starting another fire.

Wallace ran away, but first threw a pumpkin through the front-screen door.

Items police reports say he burned included clothes, a small Christmas tree, a headboard, plywood, a cardboard box and part of the carpet in the utility room. Scorch marks were found on the furnace.

When police found Wallace, officers saw ash and soot on Wallace's face and neck.

Wallace was in custody Monday in Granite City Jail, with bond set at $150,000.

Jury selection ends in Stewart AIDS trial

By Frank Gluck
Staff writer

Eight women and seven men were expected to hear opening statements Wednesday in the trial of Brian Stewart.

Jury selection ended Tuesday after about five hours of questions by lawyers on both sides. The 12 jurors and three alternates were to be sworn in Wednesday morning.

Stewart, 32, of Columbia, Ill., and formerly of St. Charles County, is charged with first-degree assault. He is accused of injecting his then-infant son with HIV-tainted blood. The boy, now 7, has AIDS.

The 15 will be sequestered beginning Wednesday night and will have little contact with the outside world until the conclusion of the trial.

Charles County Circuit Judge Ellsworth Cundiff has not informed jurors who the alternates will be.

Cundiff on Tuesday said the trial likely will end within a week.

"This case will move blisteringly fast," Cundiff said.

The names and ages of jurors were not disclosed. The oldest jurors appeared to be upper-middle aged.

Lawyers asked potential jurors questions intended to reveal any biases they might have, including knowledge of HIV.

Prosecutors believe Stewart injected his 11-month-old son while alone with him in a hospital room in 1992 as a way to get out of paying child support.

Defense attorneys claim the boy could have been accidentally infected any number of ways, including exposure to intravenous drug users. They also may try to show that the boy's mother, known only as Jennifer, could have infected him as a means of getting attention for herself.

NEWS IN REVIEW

Editor's note: News in Review, compiled from staff reports, provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is intended for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record-Journals.

Furniture store fire arson: police

GRANITE CITY — The fire that destroyed Jack and Jill's Furniture store is now classified as arson, police said. "After preliminary investigation and lab analysis, (we're) classifying the Jack and Jill's fire as being incendiary in origin, as opposed to one of natural causes," Maj. Kip Pomeroy of the Granite City Police Department said Nov. 25. "We're investigating it as an accelerated arson."

Police aren't pointing to any particular suspects yet, Pomeroy said, but the owners of the store are not really considered suspects. The Nov. 23 fire obliterated the store at 1261 Niedringhaus and damaged surrounding buildings. Whatever agent was the cause of the fire smoldered for several hours and then backdrafted, fire officials have said.

Area investment tops $100 million

METRO-EAST — Commercial and industrial development investment for projects in the Tri-City area topped $135 million, according to figures released as part of the annual Market Review and Investment Update by the Leadership Council Southwestern Illinois.

Most of that — approximately $69 million — is industrial investment.

The largest industrial projects were $30.2 million for recently completed improvements at National Steel Corp. in Granite City and $24 million for the new Dial Corp. warehouse and distribution center near the Illinois 111 and Interstate 270 intersection.

Other industrial projects in the Tri-City area included $12.5 million for the new Midwest Metal Coating plant, $9.5 million for National Robinson L.L.C. joint venture between National Steel and Robinson Steel, a $9 million expansion by Lanter Co., $2.1 million for an expansion of Prairie Farms Dairy, $1.2 million in improvements to the Tri-City Port dock and $600,000 for improvements to the Tri-City Port Harbor Side Industrial Park.

The two largest commercial projects are $29 million in completed improvements to Gateway International Raceway in Madison and the adjacent $8 million Gateway National Golf Links. Other improvements include $8 million for two Walgreens stores in Granite City, one already completed and another that has been announced, $2.5 million for the Rural Route Country Kitchen restaurant, part of a proposed business and commercial park in Pontoon Beach, and $1 million for the new Granite City Dairy Queen.

Santa returns to town

GRANITE CITY — Friday's Santa's Holiday Avenue Parade in Granite City brought Santa and Mrs. Claus down Madison Avenue to Santa's Cabin at Niedringhaus and Delmar. First place went to Granite City Moose Lodge No. 272, second place to Protestant Welfare, and third place was split between Laidlaw Transit, Elks Lodge 1063 and the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society.

Santa Claus is holding "office hours" at the Santa Cabin now until Christmas. Hours Santa will be at the cabin are 5 to 8 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays, noon to 8 p.m. Saturdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Sundays.

Bathon rips Frandsen, says he's not qualified

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County Auditor Fred Bathon said longtime County Board member Jack Frandsen is the front-runner to succeed him, and he doesn't like it. "Whether I like or don't like Jack, this is bad government; this stinks," Bathon said. "He's not qualified. He has no educational background and no experience in accounting. It's like me saying I could go out and be a farmer."

But Frandsen, D-Alhambra, says he's well qualified and that Bathon is on a power trip to get what he wants in the office, which Bathon will leave Tuesday to become the county's treasurer.

"Fred Bathon's like Saddam Hussein. He wants to run everything," Frandsen said. "He made a statement in Chouteau Township that he wants to be County Board chairman."

Meanwhile, Board Chairman Rudy Papa would not confirm candidates' names but said five people have expressed interest to him about the auditor position.

A special meeting was to be held Monday to appoint a board chairman, who will, in turn, recommend an auditor. Papa is expected to be re-elected, but he wouldn't comment on the possibility of appointing Frandsen.

Springfield Diocese offers 1,000 pope tickets in lottery

Catholics living within the Diocese of Springfield need to have their ticket request postmarked no later than Dec. 10 to be placed in the ticket lottery.

Bishop Daniel L. Ryan said the diocese will receive 1,000 tickets to Pope John Paul II's Mass, set for 9:30 a.m. Jan. 27 at the Trans World Dome in St. Louis.

Type or print your name, complete address and telephone number on a 3-by-5 U.S. postal card. No letters, faxes or telephone calls will be accepted.

Indicate the number of tickets desired. Every entry may indicate at least two tickets. The maximum number indicated may be no number of persons in the immediate family residing at the residence.

Send the post card to: Papal Mass, P.O. Box 3187, Springfield, IL 62708-3187.

Entries are limited to one per household. Persons must live within the Diocese of Springfield. Invites will be notified by mail before Dec. 31.

"There's going to be mass pandemonium among our retirees and employees," said Terry Wooden, president of United Steelworkers of America Local 3643, which represents 650 hourly workers.

Another 200 salaried employees work at the plant. The company's pension plan supports about 1,600 Alton plant retirees.

Wooden and Alton plant manager Steve Blair said they believe the company will survive and keep the Alton plant open, but no one could promise anything.

"We plan on maintaining operations and we feel we can do that," Blair said. "At this time, we have a contract with the union. We will honor that contract, which guarantees a minimum of 32 hours a week for all protected employees."

Laclede had dealt with operating losses for months. Wooden blamed previous management for running the company into the ground and foreign steel imports for dealing the final blow.

"We may have been able to pull out of this if it hadn't been for these imports dumped on us," Wooden said.

Blair said it is too early to anticipate whether layoffs would be a part of the company's reorganization. Wooden was not as optimistic.

Auditor

Papa said county board members may be in a state of mind to change sometime this week. He is expected to recommend a new auditor at the reorganization meeting at 9:30 a.m. Monday. A simple majority vote by board members is necessary to finalize the appointment.

"I don't feel any pressure," he added. "I feel the appointment should come from the county board and not (Bathon)."

Bathon said he learned three weeks ago that Frandsen will be Papa's recommendation. He said he was pressured to keep quiet about the decision, but told Papa he'd "blast it to the media." He said his relationship with Papa, once good, has since been strained.

"I told Rudy this appointment was wrong and I would not sit quietly. I let him know up front that I was unhappy with this," Bathon said.

Bathon discounts Papa's claim that he has a personal vendetta against Frandsen. He beat Frandsen in the Democratic primary race for the auditor position in 1988. Even though Frandsen has voted twice in favor of Papa as chairman, Bathon said he sees no reason for Papa to choose Frandsen as a patronage hire.

"It has me baffled," Bathon smaller children not to touch.

"This is the way G-scale needs to be," said club member Scott Fowler of Benton. "Down on the floor, in the garden, in the playroom where everybody can get a look at it."

Fowler said there was another reason for building on the floor.

"My oldest son was about 3 years old when we started going to train shows, and I always had to hold him up," Fowler said. "I said if I ever got into this, it would be down where everybody can see it."

Carol Bunno of Creve Coeur, Mo., appreciated it.

and 3-years-old, respectively — she sat with them by the

"I do anticipate some layoffs as a result of the foreign steel imports driving the market down," Wooden said. "But the last thing the court will do is close the plant and throw 650 steel workers out on the street."

The ongoing industrywide crisis of foreign steel imports is threatening the existence of the U.S. steel industry, producers and national union leaders say.

Laclede's filing for Chapter 11 won't have any effect on Granite City Steel, which produces different products than the Alton plant, said Granite City Steel spokesman Bob Maxwell.

"They've been having a tough time for years," he said.

said, adding that his disgust isn't personal even though he's "never been friends" with Frandsen.

Bathon said most of the 18 employees in the auditor's office have master's and bachelor's degrees and are certified public accountants. He's concerned the office will financially "collapse" if Frandsen is appointed.

Bathon said the tax rate has remained steady during his 10 years in the auditor's office. He said the office could suffer when five of his top employees accompany him to the treasurer's office. He said some would stay if they wouldn't have to work for Frandsen.

But Papa said he's talked to

"I hate to see it."

There may be some hope for Laclede, Granite City Steel and other producers, however. Although Granite City Steel has no new orders for December, Maxwell said, the Clinton administration is considering plans to deal with the foreign steel problem.

Last month, steel union and industry leaders met with President Clinton, his full cabinet, Vice President Al Gore and other federal officials in a private meeting to fully inform the president on the situation. "At least they're thinking about it," Maxwell said.

Staff writers Scott Cousins and Paul Brinkman provided information for this story.

the candidates and believes the new auditor will be able to find quality replacements. He also said he hopes the person he appoints will attempt to be elected in the future.

Alan Dunstan, a county board member from Troy who may succeed Herbert "Junior" Milton as vice chairman on Monday, said Frandsen will receive his support if appointed by Papa.

Frandsen, 70, from Alhambra, said his experience on the county's finance, buildings, land use and executive committees are beneficial to his qualifications. He also said he'd done accounting for several personal business ventures.

She said the show was "excellent for kids."

"It's fantastic — the noise, the action, all the boys like trains," she said. "I love them. I never had one as a kid, my husband didn't either. I think we're reliving our childhood."

The show, which last appeared in the area in Collinsville, featured more than 10,000 model trains and accessories on exhibit.

Glen Carbon board authorizes demolition

By Paul Mackie Staff writer

A Glen Carbon landlord who already has a business on Main Street slated for demolition now has an unsafe rental home that village officials are hoping to clean up.

A resolution authorizing the demolition of the home at 141

Sunset Ave. has been passed by the Village Board. Village Attorney Gary Peel said John R. Hampton will have about a month to clean up the property; otherwise, the village will pay for someone to tear it down.

"It's been cited since last year," Peel said. "Hampton took care of some of the weeds and trash in the yard, but I understand the house has still been left open and is presenting health and safety hazards," she said.

A village inspector from the Building and Zoning Department toured the home vacated and described the interior as a filthy natural habitat for rodents.

He said electrical wires are exposed on the exterior and several access points create a hand and foot hazard.

"It's no cost to the village to prosecute," Peel said. "And there's no fine Hampton if he's willing to bring it up to standards."

Stassi gets five years in sexual assault case

Former official enters Alford plea

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

Former Wood River city councilman Anthony Stassi received a five-year sentence Monday in exchange for his plea in a 1997 criminal sexual assault case.

But he will probably serve no more than six months in prison, attorney Ben Allen said, because he will be given credit for the almost 18 months he has served in Madison County Jail and any good behavior while in prison.

Stassi, 50, entered an Alford plea to a charge of criminal sexual assault, reduced from aggravated criminal sexual assault. The plea was not an admission of guilt but a concession to the fact that the state probably had enough evidence to convict him, his attorney said.

In exchange for the plea, the state dismissed two remaining counts from the 1997 case and dismissed entirely a similar case from May 1996.

"I proclaimed my innocence when I walked in here, and I proclaim my innocence now, and on my deathbed, I will proclaim my innocence," Stassi told the judge before sentencing.

Stassi's attorneys, Ben Allen and Michelle Berkel, said the Alford plea was their best option on a case that Allen referred to as one of the toughest he's had to defend. "This was like a Greek tragedy, with paths, intrigue and the unexpected," Allen said.

Stassi pleaded to a charge involving the alleged sexual assault of a 17-year-old girl who came to his house in Wood River in June 1997 in hopes of taking a house cleaning job.

The case that was dismissed involved the alleged rape of a 19-year-old woman at gunpoint in May 1996 in Alton. Allen maintains that both women consented to sex with Stassi.

"Much of this case just didn't hold water," Allen said. He said police reports indicated that both the women in the 1996 and 1997 cases had accepted money from Stassi.

The house cleaner had taken $25 for cleaning a five-room house, but demanded $150 and was bitter about not getting it, Allen contended.

Allen maintains that the house-cleaning woman in the 1997 case evaded authorities until the Illinois State Police found her and her husband in East St. Louis.

Apparently the couple had ambitions elsewhere. The victim's husband said to me, "If I had had three more days, they wouldn't have caught me." They had joined the circus and were on their way to Florida," Allen said. "When I found that out, this case went to nothing," he added.

Had the case gone to trial, Allen had planned to present evidence that the victim in the 1997 case had falsely accused an Alton man of rape when she was 14.

Accident reconstruction a tough job

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

Something as small as stretched filament in a tailpipe can prove the fault at a crash scene, Alicia K. Melton says.

Recently, the Illinois State Police trooper used exactly that evidence to prove that brake lights were activated on a sport-utility vehicle that had been struck in the rear by a tractor-trailer truck on eastbound Interstate 270 near Illinois 3.

The car driver claimed that the truck rammed him from the rear, which is typically the fault of the driver in the rear.

The truck driver, however, claimed that the driver of the car attempted to take an exit, then swerved back in front of the truck, causing the crash.

The truck driver was right, Melton said.

The truck was damaged on the right front, while the car's damage was on the left rear, indicating the vehicles were not in the same lane. Also, the car driver claimed he had never touched his brakes. The stretched light bulb filament caught him in a lie.

"It's a fallacy to believe that the guy in back is always at fault," said the trooper, Ralph Timmins, a longtime traffic reconstructionist.

Illinois State Police District 11 recently doubled the ranks of officers who can reconstruct accident scenes when trooper Alicia Melton of Edwardsville and trooper Dwayne Moore of Highland completed a 280-hour, seven-week course at the State Police Academy in Springfield.

Until now, Timmins and Sgt. Alton Jacobs were the district's only reconstructionists in a region that includes Bond, Clinton, St. Clair, Madison and Monroe counties.

"We're really blessed," Timmins said. "There are some districts that have no reconstructionists."

District 11 is the most urban district in Illinois outside of Chicago and needs the trained specialists, Timmins said. So far in 1998, there have been 48 accidents requiring reconstruction.

"We had only 37 in all of 1996 and 47 in 1997," Timmins said.

And December is generally the worst month (for accidents)," Melton added.

Typically, an officer needs three to four months to close a case, Timmins said.

Reconstructionists are called in when a potential for felony charge exists or when there is a question as to fault.

Accident reconstruction is part science and part art — a fine mix of technology, street smarts and understanding people and the vehicles they drive.

The state categorizes reconstruction scenes three ways:

Level 1 is the simplest: Witnesses are available, and authorities are "pretty sure of what happened."

Level 2 involves the need for speed computation to determine cause or fault.

Level 3 is the worst: It generally involves fatal accidents, often reckless homicides, that involve 60 to 80 hours of investigation time.

Melton, 30, was an officer on the Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville Police Department before joining the state police in June 1996. She worked the District of Chicago before arriving at the Collinsville headquarters of District 11 in August.

Since then, her life has been one accident scene after another.

"You can get called out at anytime," she said.

Witnesses are important, but even their eyes don't always see what happened. That's why evidence is the key at any scene, Melton said. And every accident leaves traces.

Among the signs troopers look for are paint transfers from one vehicle to another, location of damage, direction of thrust of the vehicles, tire marks, and rotation or spin of vehicles after a collision.

Timmins said he remembers a fatal accident in Fairview Heights in which other troopers at the scene were certain that the victim was at fault.

But within minutes, Timmins was able to prove that the other vehicle crossed the center line. The driver of that vehicle subsequently admitted fault during a hospital interview, he said.

"You always get two different sides of a story," he said.

Live trees add sparkle to holidays

Many times, Christmas is celebrated with an artificial tree. If you have something special to celebrate or remember this year or if you are need of a landscape tree, why not consider using a live tree?

Some considerations need to be taken when using a live tree. Use only locally grown or adapted trees. Trees from other areas may not grow well here.

The tree comes with a ball of dirt and roots that must be considered. This "ball" will add about 18-24 inches to the tree's height, so plan accordingly, as you cannot cut it off.

One big difference between a cut tree and a living tree is the length of time it can be set up in a home. A rule of thumb is that two weeks is long enough, with three weeks being the maximum.

Make sure that the tree receives adequate water while indoors, and try to locate it away from any heat source. The tree's root ball should be kept damp but not saturated. Use lights with small bulbs to avoid injuring the branches.

After the holidays, move the tree into the garage or to a protected area so it has time to "get used to the cold weather."

St. Louis-based minister requests control of Dunbar School building

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A St. Louis-based minister has asked the Madison City Council to give him control of the old Dunbar School site for a community center and church.

At Tuesday's City Council meeting, the Rev. Jerrald D. Ford of Bread of Life Ministries made a short presentation asking for help.

A handout given to council members outlined programs for job training, AIDS prevention and support and tutoring services for the Madison-Venice area.

Ford said the area had many problems, including drugs, the spread of AIDS and single-parent families.

"The epidemics that are endemic to the community is something we are well-equipped to handle if we have space," he said.

He said the spread of AIDS is a major concern.

The fastest growing segment of the population contracting the HIV virus are females 16-35 through unprotected sex with needle users or bisexuals.

Alderman Norris Horton said the proposal was "a very needed and ambitious program," but also noted that it would be very costly.

Ford told the council that they are now fund raising and seeking corporate sponsorships for the project and would also be eligible for federal grants for many of the programs.

Mayor John Hamm said the proposal would have to be considered by the Building and Lands Committee, and a public hearing on the matter was set for 6 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 9.

The property in question is owned by the city. City officials have said they wanted to use the property for the city's new housing program. Ford also said they wanted to use the existing Dunbar School building, which is in Venice.

That building has been gutted, but was recently cleared and boarded up by community volunteers and members of the Sheriff Work Alternative Program.

Earlier this year, a proposal to turn that building into a community center was made to the Venice City Council by former alderman Michael Terrell. No action has been taken on the matter since then.

Reception deadline extended to Monday

The deadline for businesses to RSVP for Granite City First Bank's Holiday Reception has been extended to 5 p.m. Dec. 7.

Interested businesses must RSVP to the Tri-City Chamber Commerce at 876-6400.

The reception will be hosted by SUE Edwardsville, the SUE Family Business Forum and First Bank of Granite City on Dec. 9, at the First Bank branch located at 3600 Nameo-ki Road in Granite City. The event will begin at 6:30 p.m. and run until 8:30 p.m.

Don Stratton, a well-known local musician, will perform special holiday music while guest enjoy appetizers from True Confections. Beer, wine and soft drinks will be served, also.

In addition, attendees can register to win great gifts from area merchants, such as Two Sisters Tole, Merle Norman Cosmetics, DJ May Hair Designs, Alright Cleaners, Jan's Hallmark and Tacole.

Pamela Burlingame, Director of the Family Business Forum at SUE, will be a special guest at the event. She will have information about the Forum and its function in the business community.

COMMUNITY EVENTS

Venice Park Board

The Venice Park Board has announced several holiday events. The board is sponsoring a Breakfast with Santa from 9-11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 5, at 305 Broadway in Venice.

On Dec. 13, the Board will have a program for senior citizens beginning at 3 p.m. at the Venice Recreation Center. Participants will then take a bus to the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows in Belleville for a guided tour.

Granite City Choral Concert

The Granite City Community Christmas Choral Concert is set for 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5 at Granite City High School Auditorium.

Sponsored by Irwin Chapel and Multi-Care Specialists, P.C., this free concert features an evening filled with traditional Christmas songs and music of the holiday season performed by the community choir of the "Patriots in the Park." Fourth of July celebration.

Ideas abound for Christmas gift ideas with a sports theme

'Tis the season to be Christmas shopping. And for many, that means shopping for sports items.

It used to be easy. You'd buy the youngster a baseball bat, basketball or football. Those gifts are still around, of course, but merchants today have many more items to offer the public.

Two Collinsville merchants are offering some gift ideas for the sports-minded buyer.

"The adidas jackets are still very popular," says Bill Engel of Collinsville Sports Store. "The kids also like the breakaway pants, which they'll wear to school."

The jackets retail between $64.98 and $79.95, while the pants range in price from $35 to $50.

Sports bags are also still popular, Engel says. The bags are used for sports like soccer and basketball, but Engel says many of the kids also use the bags for school. Nike and adidas bags are the most popular, and they'll sell between $22.95 and $39.95.

Engel says his store offers a good buy on Starter licensed jackets. The heavy-quilted outerwear jackets feature teams from the NBA, NFL, NHL, Major League Baseball and college ranks. They used to sell for between $89.95 and $109.95, but now can be had for as little as $59.95. Youngsters' jackets sell for as little as $39.95.

Engel says he still has some Mark McGwire T-shirts, commemorating his 70th home run, that sell for $20. He says he has no McGwire jerseys remaining, but he does have Cardinals batting practice red jerseys which sell for $70 without a name on the back and $90 with a name.

Engel says Blues jerseys also are good sellers at $59.95 for adults and $49.95 for youths. Not surprising, he says Rams jerseys are not a big seller.

Looking for a stocking stuffer? Engel offers sports scrunchies for girls to put their hair in pony tails. The scrunchies are offered in a number of colors and in different sports like volleyball, softball, soccer and basketball. They're also available for cheerleading. They have been a hot seller at $4.98 each.

Steve Castelli of Dizzy Dugout Cards and Comics in Collinsville has a number of gift ideas for the sports fans who are into memorabilia. He says McGwire items are still hot, but he says even hotter Cardinals items are J.D. Drew cards. The promising Cardinals outfielder is expected to be a star, and collectors are quick to realize that, Castelli says. Drew minor-league cards are selling for $20. He says there are two Drew major-league cards out, but shortly there will be two more major-league cards of him.

With McGwire leading the way, the 1988 season was the year of the home run in the major leagues. To help commemorate the season, there is a line of Bambino Bears dolls like Beanie Babies featuring McGwire, Sammy Sosa, Ken Griffey Jr. and Frank Thomas. The Bambino Bears have the jersey number on the front and the name of the player on the back. They sell for $10 each.

In honor of its 10th anniversary, Upper Deck has come out with a unique card which is randomly inserted into a 10-card pack of 1999 baseball cards. It's a card featuring Babe Ruth and a piece of a bat once used by the former Yankee great.

"Upper Deck bought the bat for about $250,000 and cut it up into pieces," Castelli said. "I believe they inserted a piece of the bat into 100 packs of cards. So, there's a one in 15,000 chance that you'll get an inserted card with a piece of Babe Ruth's bat. If you do get one of those cards, it would be worth about $1,000. It's like playing the lottery. A pack of cards sells for between $3 and $4.50."

While your odds are not good to get the cherished Babe Ruth card, Castelli says he has collectible coins, wall plaques and other items which all would make good Christmas presents.

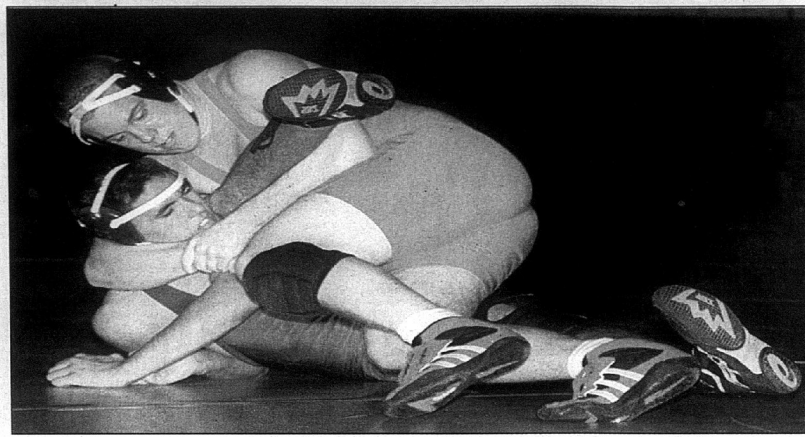

Warriors boys open season with 3-1 mark

The Granite City boys basketball team won three of its four games at the Alton Tournament.

Granite City defeated Springfield LaPlante, Cahokia and Madison and lost to Alton.

Matt Pistorius led the Warriors by scoring 35 points in the four games.

See Page 3B for coverage.

Granite City's Kevin Venne (top) controls an opponent in the 215-pound match of a recent match. The Warriors opened the season with a 3-0 record.

Granite City's Christina Withers scored six points in the 51-50 loss to Belleville East on Tuesday night.

Granite City falls to Lancers by one

Belleville East posts 51-50 win

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Belleville East took advantage of Granite City's misses from the charity stripe in the fourth quarter and posted a 51-50 victory Tuesday at Granite City.

"I thought it was a very good game — two teams going after each other," Belleville East coach Paul James said. "It's a good win for us. It's our first win of the season. We've played all three games really tough, we just hadn't come away with a victory."

"Granite City already has seven games under their belt, and I knew that would be a huge advantage for them. They had a lot of confidence, had some wins. So to come onto their floor and get away with a conference win on the road is big."

On three successive plays in the third quarter, Granite City's Erika Todd made two baskets and a steal as the Warriors assumed a two-point lead.

The Lancers started to press and scored some easy baskets in transition.

"I have 11 kids who can play, and I think I used all 11 kids," James said. "The key is to keep fresh people in there as much as we can, and if we can do that we can press. We were able to do that with fresh bodies and it tends to wear teams down. Especially with (Granite City's Jan) Shan-afelt bringing the ball up the court every time, it puts a lot of pressure

Granite City routs O'Fallon, Centralia, Cahokia in first week

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City wrestling team jumped out of the gates for the 1988-89 season and hammered its first three opponents by a combined total of 216-22.

O'Fallon's rebuilt machine was the first to fall, 61-18 on Nov. 24. The following night, the Warriors were nasty hosts to Cahokia (76-4) and Centralia (73-0).

"This early, there is a lot of work still to be done," Granite City coach Mike Garland said. "We could be better. We need more motion in our hands and feet. Everybody needs to pick up the tempo in the practice room."

"But we're pretty happy with the start. We seem to be right on track, but we don't judge ourselves against teams like that. We judge ourselves by how we do at state."

Garland picked up his 250th victory as the Warriors coach in the opener and now has a mark of 252-37-2 in his 12th season. Granite City, the nation's winningest high school wrestling program, has 1,006 victories against just 145 losses and 10 ties.

on her. It wears you out after a while if you have somebody constantly all over you. And they were pressing, too."

"I had a lot of sophomores out on the floor tonight. I have 13 sophomores on this team and only four juniors and one senior. They are going to make mistakes, but we held our composure pretty well, considering that we are so young."

Adrian May led the Lancers with 12 points while Mandy Jackson added 11.

"Mandy Jackson stepped up and had the best game of her career," James said. "She was a starter all last year as a sophomore, but she was kind of just a role player. Tonight she really took charge, by far the best game of her career. If she can play like that we have a chance to win some more games."

"I thought it was a really good game, even though it got sloppy at times. Granite has a nice team and we are rebuilding, so it was a good win for us."

The Warriors were fairly happy with their performance.

Warriors settle for tie with Cahokia

Meszaros, Stordahl score goals but Warriors miss opportunities

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Bobby Meszaros scored another goal but the Illinois Warriors had to settle for a 2-2 tie with Cahokia on Saturday night.

The tie brought the Warriors, coming off a 4-3 loss to Collinsville, to 2-1-1 for the season.

"The team played down to Cahokia's level," Warriors coach Paul Solberger said. "We didn't play well, didn't skate hard and got outworked. It was a lackadaisical effort."

"I wasn't happy with them. We have some things to work on for next time," added Warriors defenseman Robyn Slater. "It's still early and things will come together as we get later in the season."

In addition to Meszaros' fourth goal in four games, John Stordahl scored the other goal for the Warriors. Stordahl picked the puck up in the neutral zone, split the defense and sent a wrist shot past the Cahokia netminder.

"In the third period, we were putting all kinds of pressure on them," Solberger said. "We were getting good quality shots. Dave Svezia and

CLUB ICE HOCKEY

Greg Pritchard both hit the post on shots. It was one of those nights where we didn't capitalize on their mistakes and then we quit skating."

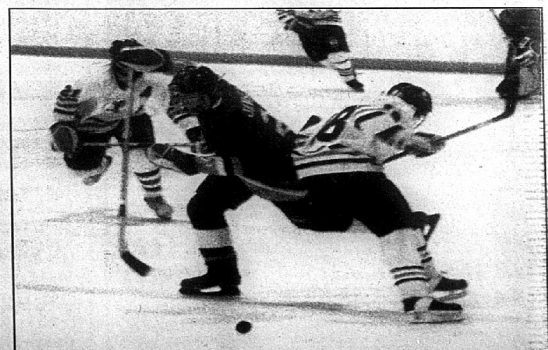

The Warriors got another strong effort out of goalie Scott Bronnbauer.

"Scotty has stepped up the last two games," Solberger said. "Goalending has been the least of our problems in the last two games. The other kids just haven't played well, and the goalies have. Scotty played well in the Collinsville game, it wasn't his fault that we lost. He didn't have much of a chance on either of the two goals tonight."

"He has started the last two and will start again Wednesday against O'Fallon. He has stepped in and made some real good saves."

"We are getting more and more solid in net. Scott has come in and played well, played strong. We are still going to bounce Brandon (Rollins) back in there. We need to get them both some experience and

Warriors nipped Wood River by one

Wallace's buzzer-beating trey lifted Granite City to fifth victory

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Jessica Wallace hit a 3-point shot at the buzzer to lift Granite City to a 61-60 victory Nov. 24 against Wood River.

"We had built an eight-point lead midway through the fourth quarter. We were playing well and should have put the game away. But that's where we lack experience, so we panicked a little bit."

"That would have been a tough game for us to lose," said Wallace, who stepped up for us.

Wood River was leading 35-33 at the half, but the Warriors had a 12-9 advantage in the third quarter to take the lead.

"We came out and Wood River hit four 3-pointers in the first half and that kept us from getting the lead," Moad said. "Then we missed some shots and free throws in the third quarter that kept it close. In the fourth quarter, we shot 1-for-7 from the line. But when the girls got the lead they settled down and were very under control."

Wallace finished with 19 points and four rebounds. Debra Aaron continued on her torrid streak, scoring 17 points to go with four steals and seven rebounds.

"We got the ball to Jessica," Moad said. "We had been waiting for her to break out and the last two games she has played with confidence and stepped up for us. She and Debra are our offensive leaders."

Erika Todd hit a season-high 14. More importantly, Todd and backcourt mate Jan Shanafelt had 14 assists between them.

"Erika hit some good shots," Moad said. "She and Jan had seven assists each. When we got 14 assists from our guards, we are going to win ball games, whether they score or not."

Shanafelt also scored three points. Christina Withers had two and Sara Luchmann had six off the bench.

Once again, the Warriors put a crease into their opponent and left it panting with their aggressive press.

"We didn't press the full game, but the majority of it we did," Moad said. "It got our tempo going and quickened the game up. It wasn't as effective as far as getting steals and easy baskets, but we play harder when we press."

Whether it's against a zone or man-to-man, our girls like to get up and down the court."

The victory sent the Warriors happily into the Thanksgiving break with a 5-2 mark.

"That was big for us," Moad said. "These girls worked hard for it. To be 5-2 is all that we could have asked for.

Granite City's Jessica Wallace scored 19 points, including the game-winning 3-point shot, last week against Wood River.

"Now we start our (Southwestern) conference schedule, and it is going to be tougher to get wins. Our conference has to be one of the toughest in the Metro East, with Belleville East and West, Collinsville, Edwardsville. If we can win some early in the conference we'll be tough to beat."

Following Granite City's one-point loss to Belleville East on Tuesday, they play at Edwardsville tonight and will face Belleville West next in conference play.

"We'll be tested," Moad said. "But we need that. We've played well, but we need to see where we stand at this point."

Granite

"I thought overall we played really well," Granite City senior forward Jessica Wallace said. "We ran our offense the way we planned, the way we practiced it, but our shots just didn't go in tonight. We had a rough night."

"I think at the beginning we were nervous because it was Belleville East and we've always had a rough time against bigger schools. Once we realized that we could play with them we slowed it down and tried to run our offense."

"We didn't shoot very well again," Granite City coach John Moad said. "From the field in the first half, we had so many balls go in and out, that just rimmed off, and that hurt our confidence a little bit. The second half, we just didn't hit the big free throws. We missed a lot of them in the second half."

Granite City was 2-for-6 on free throws in the fourth quarter.

"We had them in foul trouble a little bit and we should have taken more advantage of that," Moad said, "but we missed our free throws, so I don't know how much good it would have done."

After the Lancers scored eight straight early in the game, the Warriors went on a 14-2 run late in the second quarter to pull even by half-time at 22-22.

"We turned the press on and we really worked at it and got a couple of steals and got back in the game," said Wallace, who had 12 points.

"Our poor shooting led to (our) being down," Moad said. "When we weren't shooting well, they got into the rhythm of their offense and got some easy shots to open up that 12-point lead. You can see that as soon as our press gets an easy basket, our girls turn up the intensity. We played well for about two minutes in the first half and went into the locker room tied."

"When we start well, we usually will play well for the whole game. The first quarter

"We played right with this team, and Belleville East is a great program. To say we lost by one point, the girls should walk out of this gym with their heads high, but that's not what we are wanting. We should have won this game, by all means. That was a winnable game for us."

John Moad

is a key for us. We had some tough luck, but what can you say. If the ball doesn't go in the basket you aren't going to win many games. We had a chance to win this game without even shooting well, so that says a lot about these girls."

Shanafelt led the Warriors with 13 points, including a 3-point shot at the buzzer to close the final score to one. Erika Todd scored 10 points, and Christina Withers had six big points off the bench.

"We played right with this team, and Belleville East is a great program," Moad said. "To say we lost by one point, the girls should walk out of this gym with their heads high, but that's not what we are wanting. We should have won this game, by all means. That was a winnable game for us."

"The girls are dejected right now, and I hope we can come back Thursday (at Edwardsville) and be ready to play. But losses should hurt, that's what we have been trying to stress, that no loss is a good loss. From a coaching standpoint, a loss like this is a lot easier to take than if they quit and we get beat by 20. We're not happy, but the girls worked hard."

Hockey

game time. Right now, we are going to stick with Scotty."

Sticking up for Bronnauer got to be a violent proposition in the third period of last Saturday's game with Cahokia.

"Greg Pritchard got in a fight after one of their players slashed our goalie and then sprayed snow in his face," Solberger said. "Pritchard stood up for him and got a five-minute major. He was suspended for one game for fighting, and then another for a second game-misconduct he got for his conduct with the referee when he was leaving the ice."

"Greg got caught up in the heat of the moment. He didn't like the fact that their player hit and sprayed our goalie. Greg was just protecting his teammates and he wasn't happy with the non-call. He wanted Scotty to know that his teammates were there for him and sticking up for him."

The Warriors are fighting through some nicks and bruises.

"We are trying to play through some injuries right now," Solberger said. "We just have to work through it. I'll probably have a pretty short bench Wednesday and Saturday."

Saturday's game, set for 4 p.m., is against Bethalto Ice Memorial at the East Alton Ice Bank.

Granite City's Brooks Narvaez, a state place-winner last year, opened the season with three victories last week.

Kevin Venne moved from the 189-pound class to 215, an area that Garland saw as a key to the season. After finishing second in state as a sophomore, Venne had a disappointing junior season in which he finished 43-7 and qualified for state but did not place.

This year, Venne has started off on the right track, winning both of his matches, including the showdown at heavyweight with Centralia's Travis Jones.

"He seems to be doing OK at the higher weight class," Garland said. "He is starting to go after people like he did as a sophomore. Last year, he did a lot of waiting. If he continues to go after people, he should have a successful season."

Bobby Grammer, who replaced Venne at 189 pounds, picked up a couple of pins in the first week. Co-captains Brooks Narvaez, (152) and George Kirgan (171) each had three pins and Ryan Worthen (145) had two pins and a decision in the week.

Kahoks fall in opener

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Collinsville High came close to giving Allen Kirgan a victory in his varsity coaching debut.

Instead, the Mount Vernon Rams eked out a 39-32 victory against the Kahoks on Tuesday night.

"I feel we should have won the meet if the kids wrestled like they had at practice for the last two weeks," Kirgan said. "It's not the kids' fault. They obviously weren't ready to wrestle and it's my job to make sure that they are. This team is much better than that. Many of the boys who lost will beat the same kids by regional time."

"This meet showed us we have a lot of work ahead of us to get where we need to be.

PREP WRESTLING

We are trying to change their style. Our new style is a constant relentless attack. It will take some time for some of the boys to buy into this philosophy."

One Kahoks wrestler who has adopted the new philosophy is state-placer Kenny Lutz. In the 215-pound match, Lutz stuffed his opponent in 15 seconds.

Jason Amos, who moved up to 171 pounds, came back in overtime to top Rob Roth. Amos, who attacked through the first two periods, found himself trailing Roth 6-2 heading into the final two-minute period. Amos' relentless attack eventually resulted in a 7-7 tie at the end of regulation.

Survival main goal in case of armed bank robbery

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

When a bank robbery occurs, there should be only one goal for the victims:

Survival.

To help banks, savings and loans and other financial institutions deal with the very real possibility of armed confrontation, the Granite City Police Department conducts safety seminars and training exercises.

As part of the seminar, a pamphlet — "Surviving in a Dangerous World: A Bank Robbery Seminar" — has been compiled by the department.

It contains tips on what to do to prepare for the possibility of a robber and what to do during and after one occurs.

Survival tips included are:

• Try to be calm and observant.

• Assume the bandit will do anything to get the money.

• Do not argue or fight with bank robbers.

• Do not attempt to chase, capture or use a weapon on a bank robber.

• Tell the robber about any employees who may be in back rooms to avoid dangerous surprises.

• Use the silent alarm only if safe.

• Avoid sudden movements.

• Give the robber no more than he demands.

• Do not rush unless ordered to do so.

"The possibility of being taken hostage during a bank robbery should not be overlooked," the pamphlet said.

"What is important to remember is that every bank robbery is a hostage situation; they differ only in length of time.

The first few minutes of a hostage situation are the most tense and can be the most dangerous, but victims must be prepared to endure the "long period" as a hostage, and should try to avoid uncontrollable emotions.

If police assault the building, hostages should immediately fall to the floor, put their hands and their head, remain absolutely still and follow every command.

"If the police do not know who is there, you may be handcuffed and taken into custody," the pamphlet said.

Hostages should think of an emergency plan of escape or survival if negotiations fail, but should not attempt to escape unless "absolutely certain" of success.

"Failure to escape may direct the criminal's fear and wrath toward you," it said.

For information about the pamphlet, informants, call the Granite City Police Department at 451-9760.

ORGANIZATIONAL NEWS

Beta Sigma Phi

President Imogene Forrest conducted the Oct. 7 meeting of the local Beta Sigma Phi chapter in her home.

Prior to the regular meeting, the executive board meeting was held. Service chairman Arlene Haldeman announced delivery of food items to The Salvation Army. Orders for Beta Sigma Phi Cookbooks are being taken by Delores Dortch.

A cookbook was won by Lora Lombardi. Joyce Alexander was awarded the attendance prize. Arlene Haldeman distributed copies of the revised chapter traditions.

Alice Konecny titled her program "The Power of Color." She offered suggestions for fashions, for home surroundings and the effort of color in the work.

The hostess used the stardust theme and served a variety of desserts. Enjoyment was presented with a ceramic jack-o-lantern.

On Oct. 14, the Granite City Senior High School homecoming play, "The Miracle Worker," and the coronation of the Homecoming King and Queen was attended by Imogene Forrest, Arlene Haldeman, Joyce Alexander and Delores Dortch.

American Legion

Tri-City American Legion Post 113 recently helped a single mother in a four-hour need of a stove. Delivery and installation were completed by members of the Legion.

Post 113 Commander Ken Wallace said, "It was strange how worked out. One of our members had just bought a new stove and was going to dispose of this one. I then asked her to take it to my house and I would ensure that the stove would be a donation from the American Legion to a veteran's family member."

"We are proud and honored to help veterans and their families in many ways. The recipient's father was a veteran from World War II."

The recipient stated, "I give thanks to the American Legion that the help was there when I needed it. My children and I will be forever grateful to the American Legion and organizations like this one."

Phi Tau Omega

The Phi Tau Omega chapter of Phi Tau Omega sorority held its October meeting at Van Stuart's home. The dining room table was decorated with a centerpiece of fresh fruit and a Halloween motif. Each girl received a small pumpkin as a favor. Van served Greek food dishes and homemade apple pie a la mode.

After dinner, those in attendance played cards. Prizes were awarded to June Drew, Helen Hoelscher, Dorothy Johnson, Mildred Jungels, Laveada Knobbe, Marguerite Lexow, Ann McDowell, Elsie Rodell and Mary Lou Tonesick.

Frances Hartman won two prizes. Lois Winters, a new member, was also awarded a prize. Marguerite and Mary Lou invited all to the party in November, which will be held at Charlie's Restaurant.

Madison County Health Department

The Madison County Health Department will be offering a clinic for children every second Thursday of the month from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Venice Senior Center starting Dec. 10.

The clinic will offer immunizations, blood lead screening and free assessments of babies' growth and development. It's important to bring up-to-date shot records.

assessments of offenders for local courts and social service agencies.

Alternatives has specialized treatment programs for perpetrators of sexual abuse and domestic violence.

It also offers treatment for children and adults victimized by sexual and physical abuse.

Adkerson attends Vancouver conference

Donya Adkerson, director of Alternatives Counseling, recently presented professional training on sexual offenders and domestic violence at the 17th International Research and Treatment Conference of the Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers.

The conference was held this year in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

The presentation was based on her experience in the field of intervention with violence. Adkerson serves on the Executive Board of Directors for ATSA.

PEOPLE

Model train show brings railroad enthusiasts to Gateway Center

It had been a busy 18 hours or so for Skip MacEwen of Belleville.

A member of the Gateway Garden Railroad Club, he and other members had assembled their modular G-scale layout — larger than a good-sized room — on Friday for Belleville's annual Christmas Parade, disassembled it that evening and reassembled it Saturday morning for the Great American Train Show at the Gateway Center in Collinsville.

"We were here since 6 a.m. (that day)," he said. "It takes us about four hours to do this. It (the layout) lives in a 30-foot trailer when we're not doing shows."

But with a steady parade of model railroad enthusiasts pouring into the center for the two-day show, it was worth it for the railroading clubs and vendors.

In addition to fascinating children and bringing back memories for their parents and grandparents, model railroading is big business.

More than 1 million people have a "casual" interest in model railroading, while 250,000 are "serious" enthusiasts and spend more than $500 yearly on their hobby.

Model trains come in 25 different sizes, with HO scale — 1:87 scale, meaning a boxcar will be about six inches long — the most popular, used by 60 percent of railroaders.

Casual railroaders can buy a starter train set for about $50 and construct a "nice" layout for about $200, but many spend far more.

Especially when it comes to collectors.

Depending on their age, condition and how many were produced, old Lionel and American Flyer trains can be worth up to $2,000.

But for MacEwen and most others at the show, railroading is just fun.

Like many clubs, each member of the Gateway Garden Railroad Club is responsible for a section of the track and can do pretty much what they want with it as long as it will connect properly to other sections.

The club's layout — modular with two active lines — was based on railroad scenes of the late 1940s and early 1950s and included a circus and hobo yard.

"A little bit of steam and some diesel," MacEwen said.

That was the time when most railroads switched from the steam engines — many known fondly by their numbers or nicknames by railroad workers and enthusiasts — to the less romantic diesel engines.

"A lot of us like steam," MacEwen said. "Also, it's narrow gauge, which we're pretty fond of."

He said model trains have always attracted people, especially at Christmas.

"The older folks remember the old steam engines and kids of all ages love to see trains go past," he said.

He also said it was a great time for model railroaders to add to their collections.

Chuck Rothweiler of St. Louis was trying to do just that.

He was checking out a large display of pre-World War II Lionel trains and accessories owned by dealer Preston Richards of Indianapolis.

"I've got a few," Rothweiler said. "I've been collecting for 40 years. Mostly common stuff."

He said he started collecting out of nostalgia.

"For my age, it's remembering when you were a kid," he said. "Now it's an obsession."

Richards agreed.

"It's that nostalgic bug," he said. "Adults that have children now, baby boomers that grew up with this stuff in the '40s, '50s and '60s, they're either rejuvenating sets they had when they were children or adding to them, or they have kids now and if they disposed of them when they went off to college in the '60s, they're replacing them now."

Like many enthusiasts, Richards started model railroading as a child. He now specializes primarily in pre-war Lionel trains.

"I had a train set when I was a kid, and I added to it," he said. "When my high school buddies were looking to finance a set of tires for their automobiles, I'd buy their trains."

He said trains and accessories were "plentiful" then and could be found at thrift shops, Goodwill stores and hobby shops.

"An ad in the paper would bring out tons of stuff, but that's not the case anymore," he said.

While customers looked over his wares, Richards was busy putting Pullman labels on a restored passenger car.

"I do a lot of restoration — recycling of pre-war stuff that's ready for the trash bin, which, unfortunately, is where a lot of this ended up," he said. "But if I can get it before it goes to the landfill, then I'll bring it back to like-new conditions."

Richards said Lionel has made trains continuously since 1900 except during the war years, when its manufacturing capabilities were used for war-related materials.

While many people were looking for trains and accessories, others were seeking more historical items.

George Krainz of Gillespie spent part of the morning looking through a book about the Illinois Terminal Railroad.

"My dad used to work for them," he said. "I own property where the line used to go through, and it's a bike trail now."

"I collect Lionel trains, but I just got a heart for Illinois Terminal," he said.

David Read of the Atlanta suburb of Marietta, Ga., was offering even more detailed items, including old train schedules and detailed rail maps from Norfolk and Southern.

He said those maps are important to serious railroaders.

"They can use that, they go out walking the tracks and they know what's there," he said.

Read said he has been collecting railroad memorabilia for 30 years, and like most of the others, had loved trains "ever since I was a little boy during the war."

Above, Chuck Rothweiler of St. Louis looks over a large collection of pre-war Lionel engines. Rothweiler began collecting Lionel trains 40 years ago. He said at first he did it out of nostalgia, but now calls it an "obsession." The show featured more than 10,000 train engines and cars for sale or trade or on exhibit. The G-scale train set, operated by the Southern Illinois Train Club, was placed at ground level, attracting children and adults alike. Far right, a 1940's downtown scene, including a movie theater showing Orson Wells' "Citizen Kane," was one of many exhibits at the show.

DAR stages meetings

The Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution has held meetings this fall in the homes of Barbara Williams and Jane Vapoele.

A special visitor at the September meeting in the Williams home was Mrs. Arthur Ziebold, the DAR District Director, who spoke on the topic of membership. The chapter was represented at the state meeting in Mt. Vernon by Regent Linda Mizeli.

Judie Schatz reported that personal items had been delivered to the Veterans' Home in Marion. A copy of the new book, "The Prairie Tree," a publication by the Illinois State DAR, was donated to the Granite City Public Library by Regent Mizell.

In October, the group met in the home of Jane Vanesler for a breakfast followed by a business meeting.

A discussion on the process of possibly merging with other chapters was discussed and more information was sought. The process involves at least a full year before everything is finalized.

The group decided to continue with the procedure of giving individualized paperweights to the persons chosen by the three area high schools as their Good Citizens for 1998-99. Letters have been sent to the local high schools regarding their selecting of the Good Citizens.

Mrs. Vanesler presented the program for the morning meeting.

The November meeting of the chapter was held in the home of Barbara Williams. Illness prevented several members from attending. After breakfast snack, those in attendance transacted business that could not be delayed until the December meeting.

The treasurer reported that all drugs and state or national assessments had been mailed in, even though a few were still outstanding.

A program entitled "Which Came First?" tested each person's knowledge of 24 historical groups of events.

The December meeting has been changed to Dec. 11 due to several conflicts on Dec. 12.

Local CPO helps Navy recruits

They come from every state in the union and some from overseas.

The reasons they are here as varied as the places they come from. Some seek training and education. Others seek a secure job with benefits and a real future. Still others are looking for the adventure that comes with plying the oceans of the world.

But before they earn the title of sailor in the greatest navy in the world, they must first make it through boot camp.

Helping the recruits make it over this first hurdle in their Navy careers are sailors like Richard A. Erwin.

Erwin, the son-in-law of Robert Townsend of Pontoon Beach, joined the Navy in 1981. "I wanted to leave home and get out on my own. My family has served in all branches of the military, but I always wanted to join the Navy. I guess I took after my three uncles that retired from the Navy."

Erwin, a 37-year-old Chief Petty Officer, is a damage controlman and usually responds to any shipboard emergency, like fire or flooding. But at Great Lakes, he serves as a curriculum administrator.

"I work with the damage control curriculum and all current updates. It's a challenge and it's helped my computer skills."

After 18 years in the Navy, it comes as no surprise that Erwin has enjoyed many of the unique perks that comes with being a sailor.

"I'm an East Coast sailor and I've been on eight deployments. I've been to the Mediterranean four times, the Red Sea three times and I deployed to the Grelands in 1993. I've seen a big part of Europe and I enjoy getting under way. But there is no place like home."

Married to the former Lori Townsend, Erwin has definite plans for his future. "I would like to advance to master chief petty officer before I leave the Navy. After the Navy, I would like to work with the state emergency management team for a while and work up to the federal program."

Courtesy U.S. Navy

Richard Erwin, who has relatives in Pontoon Beach, sits at his desk at Great Lakes Navy Recruit Center in suburban Chicago. Erwin, who is a chief petty officer in the U.S. Navy, is in charge of helping Navy recruits survive the rigors of Navy boot camp.

Eagles Ladies Auxiliary holds meeting

Twenty members attended the meeting of Eagles Aerie 1126 Ladies Auxiliary in November, with Nina Jackson, president, presiding.

A roll call of officers was taken and Suzie Rogers, Mary Church, and LaVerne Ma Malzinsky were unable to attend the meeting and excused due to illness.

The minutes of the previous two meetings were read by secretary Vincine Zerlain and approved.

Glenda A. Bixler, Cheryl Meagher and Kim Krug were initiated by the Ritual Team of Pat Fitchett, Joanna Spencer, Barbara Modrusic, Nina Jackson, Pro-Tem Chaplain, and Angie Buehler, conduct.

The visiting chairman reported that cards were sent to Marcie Jarvis, Barbara Brandt, who lost her mother, and Vicki Walker, who recently had surgery and is recovering nicely.

A "No Goose Egg" sticker was received from the Grand Aerie for the month of September. An ad will be placed in the convention book.

Evelene Ederle, Bingo Chairman reported on the club's fourth anniversary bingo and the trip to Branson was won by Margaret Crouch, with the Tunicia trip being won by Edna King.

The Mark McGwire plaque and certificates for 12 Mark McGwire Beanie Babies were given.

Susan Allen announced that the Heart and Eagle Education charities were to serve a chicken and dumplings dinner Nov. 14 at the Eagles Home.

A joint Aerie and Auxiliary Christmas Party will be held Dec. 6. Each member attending will bring a $5 or more unwrapped toy for the children's Christmas.

The Catholic Children's Home will be the special project and four different locations sponsored by the home will be given Sony PlayStations, a small television and a ping-pong table. Each child will be given a donation to do their own shopping.

The Don Brosco Home in Belleville, which is a temperary home for newborns to children 12 years of age, will receive the toys donated at our adult Christmas party.

Six members of the ritual team and a driver will be attending the seven-state conference to be held in Paducah, Ky. The Ritual Team will compete during the conference, which is scheduled for Jan. 28 to 31.

Plans for the Christmas Dinner Dec. 22 were discussed. Dinner will be at 6 p.m., with the regular meeting follow.

A committee was set up to plan the Christmas Basket Giveaway for the needy. The committee consists of Pat Fitchett, Martha Simpson, and Joanna.

Sharon Case brought a new facility to our attention, the Good Samaritan Shelter. This is a temporary shelter for women and children who are displaced and not necessarily for the abused. They help people with their GEDs, with parenting classes, help them find a home and many other things.

The club will consider this facility as a food distribution site and will check into volunteering time to help.

Prizes were won by Nina Jackson and Angie Buehler. A social hour was held and refreshments were served.

Vaudeville returns to Lincoln Theatre

By Larry Ingram
Staff writer

As it did when the theater opened in 1921, the stage at the Lincoln Theatre in Belleville will come alive this weekend with song and dance.

Acts featuring dancers, singers, actors and musicians will grace the historic stage at a 2 p.m. performance Sunday of "An Old Fashioned Christmas."

Dance troupes from the Belleville School of Ballet and the St. Peters Cathedral Men's Choir will be among the entertainers taking to the stage. They will be accompanied by Jack Jenkins at the Lincoln Theatre organ.

"This is one of the events that helps to showcase the organ," said Lincoln Theatre Special Events Director Dave Schoenborn.

From Lebanon, the Looking Glass Players will present a short excerpt from their Christmas Program, "A Christmas Carol."

Dennis Ammann will also entertain with a Christmas concert and sing-a-long.

"The Lincoln Theatre opened as a vaudeville house," said Lincoln Theatre special events director Dave Schoenborn. "A lot of theaters started as vaudeville houses and then they moved into showing movies."

Jack Jenkins plays the historic organ at the Lincoln Theatre.

Over the years, a variety of celebrities have appeared at the Lincoln Theatre.

A young Ginger Rogers graced the stage in November of 1926.

At about the same time, a fresh, new comedy act called the Nightingales appeared at the Belleville Lincoln Theatre. They later changed their name to the Marx Brothers.

The Marx Brothers left their mark on Belleville in a unique way.

Schoenborn said Harpo Marx stole his famous horn off a taxi cab while performing in Belleville. He later recounted the tale in his biography.

Today the Lincoln Theatre can be seen much like it was in the 1920s. It has been lovingly restored over the last 18 years to create the same feeling as it did when it first opened.

A dream of the current owner was to once again have a pipe organ in the theater. He began salvaging organ consoles and other parts before they were destroyed by neglect.

The organ's rededication in October of 1996 was the start of the theater's Diamond Jubilee year.

The Lincoln Theatre is the only vaudeville house within a 300 mile radius where the public can hear the theater pipe organ every week. The complete vaudeville stage is intact.

Tickets for "An Old Fashioned Christmas" are on sale at the Box Office for $10 each. Groups of 15 or more will receive a 20 percent discount.

Lemp tour offers a haunting time

By Glen Sparks
Staff writer

Legend goes that ghosts still haunt this old house that stands high above Interstate 55, not far from the Mississippi River in South St. Louis.

Visitors report seeing specters in the mirror, apparitions floating through the rooms and lonesome pianos offering mournful tunes.

So, Betsy Belanger has this warning: On the tour, stick together.

"Don't laugh," she scolds one skeptical visitor.

Certainly, if a house should be haunted, it is this one. The Lemp Mansion, 3322 DeMenil Place, has been the site of three suicides and one "murder."

Charles Lemp shot his dog to death just before taking his own life.

"We're counting that as a murder," Jason Johnston says.

Johnston shares Lemp tour guide duties with Belanger. The Lemp Mansion, open as a restaurant since 1977, began offering the tours in mid-September.

Life magazine has designated the Lemp as one of this nation's 10 most haunted houses.

"I believe all the stories," Belanger says. "I just do."

"I've loved the house since I first came here in the '70s, and I'm interested in 'other-world' things anyway."

Betsy Belanger

Ghost stories aside, a Lemp tour offers a glimpse of St. Louis' turn-of-the-century wealth.

Although most of the furniture and lighting fixtures in the 33-room mansion are not original, much of the 120-year-old house remains true to the Lemps', uh, spirit.

Fireplaces are crafted from Italian marble, ceilings feature intricate hand-painted designs and mantels are carved from African mahogany.

Behind the parlor is an atrium that was home to the Lemps' exotic plants and birds. At the rear of the house are three huge vaults where pieces of their noted art collection were stored.

Of course, it is the tragic side of the Lemps, even more than their riches, that so fascinates visitors. Here's a recount of the Lemp clan's anguished past:

Misfortune first struck the Lemps in 1901. Frederick Lemp, said to be William Lemp's favorite son and heir-apparent to the beer-making empire, died from heart disease.

Three years later, William Lemp, still upset over his son's death, took a pistol and shot himself in the head while in a mansion bedroom.

In 1920, Elsa Lemp, William Jr.'s sister and St. Louis' richest heiress, committed suicide in the mansion after returning from her honeymoon.

Prohibition crippled the Lemp fortune. On June 28, 1922, William Lemp Jr. sold the family business for pennies on the dollar. International Shoe Co. paid $588,500 for the property that covered 10 city blocks. It had once been valued at $7 million.

William Lemp Jr. shot himself 18 months later in the same room where his father had committed suicide.

"He felt he let the whole family down after he sold the business," Belanger explains.

William Lemp III died of a heart attack in 1943 at the age of just 42. William Jr.'s

Lemp family has long history in St. Louis

Legacy began with 1838 grocery store

By Glen Sparks
Staff writer

The Lemp family's legacy in St. Louis begins with Johann Adam Lemp.

He arrived here from Eschwege, Germany, in 1838 with plans to become a grocer. The store he opened at Second and Morgan streets was near the present Gateway Arch.

In a short time, though, Lemp decided to make his fortune as a beer maker instead.

His father had taught him the art of brewing in Germany. Plus, a natural cave system underneath much of St. Louis ensured the perfect temperature for aging lager beer.

This lighter beer offered a contrast to the darker, thicker brother, Charles, the last of the Lemps to inhabit the mansion, shot his dog and then himself in 1949.

"He wasn't trying to be mean," Belanger said. "He just loved the dog and wanted to go with him."

Edwin Lemp, Charles' brother who died in 1970 at the age of 90, discovered the bodies.

"Charles was the only one to leave a note," Belanger says.

"He wrote that, 'If anyone should find my body, this deed was done by my own hands.'"

These are the tales Belanger finds so absorbing. A friend in local theater told her the Lemp Mansion needed a tour guide, and she didn't hesitate to call the mansion.

"I've loved the house since I first came here in the '70s, and I'm interested in 'other-world' things, anyway," she says.

One man doing restoration work at the mansion in the early 1980s ran outside after complaining someone in an empty room was watching him, Belanger says.

"He said he'd never come back," Belanger says. And Johnston says, "He never has."

Still feeling brave? Guided tours of the Lemp Mansion — ghost stories included — are offered on Thursdays from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 8 p.m. Ticket prices are $3 for adults and $1 for children. Tours last about 30 minutes. Remember, stick together.

German beers common in St. Louis.

Johann Lemp left his grocery business in 1840 and opened a brewery at 112 S. Second St. He died of natural causes in 1862, a millionaire.

"He was a go-getter who began the family empire, but was also very generous," says Betsy Belanger, a tour guide at the Lemp family mansion, 3322 DeMenil Place.

William Lemp took over for his father and built the business into an industrial giant. He constructed a plant in 1864 at Cherokee Street and Carondelet Avenue.

In 1874, Lemp moved into the mansion that his father-in-law had built in 1868.

With his riches, he converted the 33-room house into a residence, office and Victorian palace. He hosted ornate parties inside the huge caves underneath the house.

By 1870, Lemp was the largest beer maker in St. Louis. The company held that position until Prohibition.

The J. Lemp Brewing Co. was incorporated in 1892.

Symphony to record music

Orchestra forms company to sell its own compact discs

By Dan Yount
Staff writer

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra is ensuring its music is captured for posterity by recording and selling compact discs.

The orchestra — in an unprecedented move in the recording industry — has formed its own recording company, Arch Media, to record its music under the baton of Music Director Hans Vonk.

Arch Media has released two compact discs featuring Vonk and the orchestra. One CD carries the orchestra's presentations of Beethoven Symphonies No. 3 and 8; a second disc features Schubert Symphonies No. 3 and 9.

Arch Media is the first recording company of its kind for a major American orchestra, said Susan Sherman, an orchestra spokeswoman. The releases mark the first time a major American orchestra has taken on the production and marketing of its own recordings, she said.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra has a rich history of being recorded by major recording companies, starting with the 78-rpm shellac discs made when Maestro Rudolph Ganz conducted the orchestra in 1923, Sherman said.

The recent launch of Arch Media is a result of a cooperative venture between St. Louis Symphony Orchestra musicians and management, and the American Federation of Musicians, said Don Roth, the orchestra's executive director.

The collaboration is in direct response to the decline in classical music recording activity by major recording companies and other changes in the music industry, Roth said.

The big recording companies are dropping recordings of some symphony orchestras, because classical music is not highly profitable for them, Sherman said.

However, the local orchestra can find support for recordings of its music in the St. Louis region, she said. Also, recording costs can be controlled in the formation of a recording company that is supervised by orchestra officials and musicians, she said.

"We can control the number of CDs pressed, which will help keep costs down," Sherman said. "Starting a small business like this is challenging, but we have people calling and wanting our product."

The orchestra's CDs will be available nationally through an on-line distribution partnership with Music Boulevard.

The recordings are available by calling (800) 232-1880 or by ordering on-line through the orchestra's web site at www.slslo.org or Music Boulevard's web site at www.musicblvd.com.

The recordings also are available at Powell Symphony Hall, 718 N. Grand Blvd., immediately prior to and after orchestra performances; Webster Records, 117 W. Lockwood Ave. in Webster Groves; and Streetside Records locations.

'Enemy of State' is fast-paced thriller

Will Smith, Gene Hackman give strong performances

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

"Enemy of the State" is an effective, fast-paced thriller with all the frenetic editing and big explosions you'd expect from a Jerry ("Con Air," "The Rock") Bruckheimer production.

Jon Voight stars as Thomas Brian Reynolds, a National Security Agency official who will do whatever it takes, including murder a U.S. congressman, to get legislation passed that will make it easier for his organization to spy on people. Unfortunately for Reynolds, nature photographer Daniel Zavitz (Jason Lee) captures the whole nasty killing on videotape.

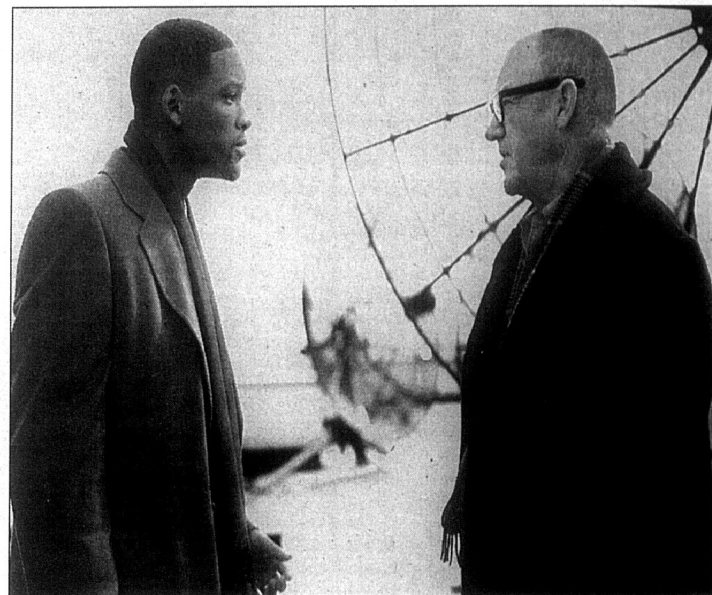

Reynolds' operatives find out about Zavitz, and quickly tie up his phone lines and send agents out to get him and the tape. Using satellite technology and helicopters to keep track of him, they chase him across rooftops and through city streets.

Zavitz evades them just long enough run into a store and slip the tape into the shopping bag of attorney Robert Clayton Dean (Will Smith). Zavitz is killed seconds later, after being struck by a vehicle while running down a busy highway.

Tapping into the store's surveillance camera, Reynolds' staff suspect that Dean now has the tape. Dean is unaware he has any tape, but refuses to let Reynolds' men, pretending to be police officers, search his bags. This convinces Reynolds that Dean has the tape, and so he sets about destroying him.

Reynolds' men break into Dean's home and put wire taps everywhere, including Dean's clothes, watch and pen. Dean gets framed for corruption, costing him his job, and his relationship with a friend, Rachel Banks (Lisa Bonet) is made public, costing him his home and family.

Alone and desperate, Dean contacts Banks. Banks had frequently helped Dean get sensitive information through the help of a mystery man named Brill (Gene Hackman). Dean wants to meet Brill personally in the hope he can help unravel the mystery that has engulfed him. Brill turns out to be a paranoid ex-NSA agent who has spent a lifetime working in espionage. After the agency believed him dead, Brill went underground.

Will Smith and Gene Hackman in a scene from the Touchstone Pictures' release, "Enemy of the State."

Dean finds the tape and brings it to Brill. After watching it, they realize the danger they are in. Brill strips Dean of the bugs on his clothes, and then uses them to create a trap for Reynolds. But things are never that easy.

The film makes a few more twists and turns before coming full circle in a clever conclusion tied to Dean's legal work early in the film.

"Enemy of the State" is an entertaining and exciting thriller, even if its message about the threat to privacy by government watchdogs is nothing new (you can see it every week on "The Net," the TV series based on the earlier movie). Smith and Hackman give top-rate performances.

Popular TV lines live on

Many have become part of our culture

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

If there is a lull in conversation, my friends and I are likely to throw out a line from an old television show.

We are so familiar with certain programs, particularly sitcoms, that all one of us has to do is recite some dialogue from "All in the Family" or "Get Smart" and the rest of us will jump in with other lines off the top of our heads.

Here is an example of one of our exchanges about "MASH." "Somebody will toss out, 'Go mail a bear,' which Hawkeye says to Trapper in an episode. Others will add, 'I've eaten a river of liver and an ocean of fish' or 'Cross out where it says machine gun and write in pizza oven.'"

Quit snickering. We could be doing serious harm to society if our little minds weren't occupied on matters such as this.

"Taxi" fans often point to the episode in which the Rev. Jim Ignatowski takes his driver's license examination as one of the greatest moments in television history, and we enjoy reliving the show. During one exchange, Bobby is helping Jim fill out the application and comes to the part that asks if the applicant has a history of mental illness or narcotic addiction.

Jim responds, "That's a tough choice." It is more difficult to reconstruct scenes from dramas, though, but there are some famous catch phrases. Columbo would say, "Just one more thing" every episode as a way to annoy the criminals he chased.

request "Just the facts, ma'am" from the witnesses he interviewed on "Dragnet."

After nabbing a bad guy, Steve McGarrett would blurt out, "Book him, Danno" on "Hawaii Five-O."

For this week's trivia quiz, I will give you a famous line or catch phrase from television and you will need to identify the name of the program that produced it.

1. "Not that there's anything wrong with that."
2. "I am not a pig lawyer!"
3. "I do so love when a plan comes together."
4. "I'm losing a battle of wits to an unarmed man."
5. "To the moon, Alice! To the moon!"
6. "That's the name of that tune."
7. "Sorry." The show I am talking about used this in a particular sketch involving a game.
8. "Oh, Elizabeth, I'm coming to join you, honey!"
9. A character from this program said he lives in a trailer because "it's cheap, tax-deductible, earthquake-proof and, when I get a case out of town, I take it with me."
10. "I dood it."

ANSWERS:

1. "Seinfeld," from the episode in which a student reporter mistakenly writes that Jerry is gay.
2. "Green Acres."
3. "The A-Team." Hannibal Smith would say this after a scheme worked.
4. "The Mary Tyler Moore Show." Murray said this to Ted during one of their confrontations.
5. "The Honeymooners." Ralph probably would not get away with making this threat to his wife if he were on a current program.
6. "Baretta."
7. "The Carol Burnett Show." In one of the "Family" sketches, Eunice forced everyone to play the game Sorry! and they kept nastily saying it to one another when they would land on an opponent's game piece.
8. "Sanford and Son." Fred would say this whenever he was faking a heart attack.
9. "The Rockford Files."
10. "The Red Skelton Show." Red would say it while playing his Mean Widdle Kid character.

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Entertainment and Trivia Show" from 8-11 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

Garden shines at holiday

Floral exhibit runs through Jan. 3

By Clayton Berry
Staff writer

Missouri Botanical Garden workers do not close the gates when winter arrives.

Not only does the Garden remain open during the frigid months, but some features actually flourish when it's cold outside.

The annual holiday floral exhibition runs through Jan. 3. Leslie Muskopf, public relations coordinator, said the yearly event is the favorite among Garden goers during winter.

This year's theme is "Picture You, Picture Me."

The innovative display fills the 5,200-square-foot Orthwein Floral Hall. It can be enjoyed during the Garden's regular hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day.

Brian LeDoux coordinates the floral arrangements. He said his latest show is a way make the display more interactive. The exhibition features six three-dimensional holiday scenes. They are not only designed to show off thousands of poinsettias and other seasonal flora, but to be a backdrop for family photographs.

Mom, dad and the kids can jump into the middle of " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas," for example. There are even stockings hung with care on a fireplace mantel.

"I want people to have fun and enjoy it," LeDoux said. Sure there is holiday fun, but it takes several months and dozens of volunteers to pull off the exhibit. And there's a bit of history, too. The holiday floral show dates to the turn of the century. This does not escape LeDoux, who has been the main designer since 1975.

"It's carrying on a tradition," he said. "And for a lot of people, this has become a holiday tradition."

In addition to the holiday floral show, the Garden is home to many special events through the Christmas season.

The holiday wreath exhibit is running concurrently with the floral show. The display features artistic wreaths by local floral designers. It continues through Jan. 3 as

HOROSCOPE Thursday, Dec. 3

The full moon is in the sign of the mischievous twins. More than one friendship circle is affected by unfriendly gossip during this outpour of emotion. The lesson is to choose friends carefully, and forgive yourself for any actions you wouldn't do today. In fact, another opportunity to right past wrongs will present itself before the month is over.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 3). You are fun to be with, and friends choose you so often you'll wish you had more time for yourself. Doing well in business depends on your ability to meet the right people. Attend many events in the next two months, and keep your best face to the world. A sweet heart makes February magic. Travel's possible in April, but the pull of home is stronger in March and May.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Inspirational stories are motivating. Buckle down, and focus on an accomplishment that will come as early as the end of the month. Someone has been touting your abilities, and you could be in for a promotion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Scatter your efforts — you accomplish more. Give careful thought to the advice you give, as you're influencing an impressionable mind. It's not wise (but you'll be tempted) to spill your feelings to a friend who loves to gossip.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Pressure to make a financial decision should not stop you from thorough research. Others demand more of your time than you feel like giving. Jump on the opportunity to travel. You'll be glad you did.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Focus attention on bringing peace and compassion into the home. Commend the person who is brave enough to admit deep feelings. Friends may meddle out of envy or boredom. Keep your privacy sacred.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Make choices that reflect how far you've come. Cash flow increases due to extra hours put in at the office. Everyone will try to get you on his or her side. Exercise to relieve the tension and stress that are building up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You put so much creative energy into a relationship, you may feel you have little left over for something you truly love to do. Don't spread yourself thin. Spend time more equitably between your interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23).

'Cans Film Festival' set for Saturday

Wehrenberg Theatres and the Salvation Army are teaming up to help feed the hungry through the 15th annual "Cans Film Festival."

On Saturday, anyone who brings three cans of food, or other nonperishable food items, to a Wehrenberg Theatre will be able to see either of the first two matinees free.

Guests who bring 10 or more cans as a donation will receive a free pass for a future movie. Also, the person who brings in the most canned food items will be eligible for a pass for a year of free movies at Wehrenberg Theatres.

All proceeds from the "Cans Film Festival" will benefit the Salvation Army Tree of Lights campaign. Cash donations also will be accepted. Salvation Army red kettles will be set up at all Wehrenberg Theatre locations.

The canned goods collected will be transported to local Salvation Army shelters. Last year, more than 70,000 cans of food were collected during the campaign.

People have more to contribute but could be holding back because you appear to be doing fine on your own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Explore the deeper meanings behind recent actions. Good fortune springs from polishing your talents. If it feels like you need a new start in your personal life, it's just temporary resistance to counting your blessings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Make more time for personal interests and hobbies. What you seek is right under your nose.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Taking things too seriously will stop you from learning about yourself. Instead, move toward illumination using the tool of humor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You are quite the humanitarian today, a quality that attracts special people to you. Energy and motion are needed to keep a love affair alive. Keep trying to find the right words to express your feelings to a loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Mentally, you score high today. Keep a creative idea file to dip into later when you are not quite as inspired as you are now. Unexpected opposition will only make you stronger in the long run.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

'Holiday at the Barracks' will focus on Christmas past

Dec. 12-13 event to feature re-enactors from all periods

By Jim Merkel
Staff writer

"It's the only time when we have all of these different time periods at one time. We bring all the time periods together. It's kind of the wind-down for the year."

The DOWNTOWN NEIGHBORHOOD RESTORATION SOCIETY OF GRANITE CITY will celebrate its 25th anniversary with a tour of historic homes and churches.

The tour is set for 3 to 8 p.m. Dec. 19. Tickets cost $10, and 50 percent of the profits will support physician services and follow-up medical care for low-income patients through St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Koch Family Health Center.

Tickets are available at Floral Original, 2862 Madison Ave.; Jan's Hallmark, 19 Crossroads Plaza; Sandy's Wallpaper, 2880 Iowa; and The Patio Restaurant, 1308 Niedringhaus Ave.

CHOUTEAU TOWNSHIP is holding a Breakfast With Santa 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday at the Chouteau Township Social Center, 906 Thorngate in Mitchell. Donuts, milk, coffee, juice, plus a Christmas treat for the children and music by Joey James will be available.

PONTOON BEACH youngsters up to age 12 are invited to have breakfast with Santa at its annual Breakfast with Santa event from 8 to 11 a.m. Dec. 12 at Pontoon Beach Village Hall, 3910 Illinois 111. Registrations are being taken for the event at the Comptroller's Office, located at Village Hall through Friday. The event is open to Pontoon Beach residents only, and proof of residency will be required.

To culinary historian Suzanne Corbett, the upcoming "Holiday at the Barracks" event is just as much a part of Christmas as Christmas trees and gifts.

For the 21st year, Corbett will heat traditional Christmas food such as German Christmas bread and French pastries on an old wood stove at the "Holiday in the Barracks," set for Saturday, Dec. 12, and Sunday, Dec. 13, at the Jefferson Barracks Historic Site.

"It wouldn't be Christmas without the Barracks," Corbett said.

Sponsored by the Friends of Jefferson Barracks, Holiday at the Barracks will focus on Christmas past through the eyes of the military. Activities both days will include past and present traditions portrayed by re-enactors in authentic attire.

Glenda Stockton, president of the Friends of Jefferson Barracks, said re-enactors represented will include periods ranging from the French and Indian War period to the Civil War to World War II.

"It's the only time when we have all of these different time periods at one time," Stockton said. "We bring all the time periods together. It's kind of the wind-down for the year."

The free event will take place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

'Christmas Revisited' set for Sunday

"Christmas Revisited," a presentation of vocal pieces from past Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Christmas concerts, will be performed by the Concert Chorale, the University Singers and the Community Choral Society at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Vadalabene Center gymnasium.

Tickets are $7, $5 for students and senior citizens. For more information, call the SIUE Department of Music at 650-3900.

Christmas

The GRANITE CITY PARK DISTRICT has made arrangements for kids to talk directly to Santa Claus at the North Pole. Santa will call children from 4 to 7 p.m. Dec. 10 and listen to their wishes and find out if they've been good girls and boys. To receive a call from Santa, an adult must stop by or call the Wilson Park Office.

Santa Claus is holding "office hours" for SANTA'S HOLIDAY AVENUE at the Santa Cabin at Delmar and Niedringhaus now until Christmas.

Hours Santa will be at the Cabin are 5 to 8 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays, noon to 8 p.m. Saturdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Sundays.

Concerts

The GRANITE CITY COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS CHORAL CONCERT is set for 7 p.m. Saturday in the Granite City High School Auditorium.

Sponsored by Irwin Chapel and Multi-Care Specialists, P.C., this free concert features an evening filled with traditional Christmas songs and music of the holiday season performed by the community choir of the "Patriots in the Park" 4th of July concert.

Bring a canned good to be dispersed to area needy.

The SIUE WINDS SYMPHONY and the SUE CONCERT BAND will perform at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Katherine Dunham Theater on campus. Tickets are $3.

Another highlight is "Carols in the Garden." Carolers will stroll the Garden today and Friday. Candlelight tours of the Tower Grove House are offered between 4:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Garden visitors wishing to be transported into the past can dine in Victorian tradition at the Tower Grove House Dec. 8 and 9 and Dec. 14 and 16.

To celebrate the diversity of the season, Garden officials host a Hannukah festival to mark the Jewish holiday on Dec. 13; and a Kwanzaa festival for the African-American tradition.

Even when the presents are opened and the new year rings, there are happenings at the Garden.

Garden fixtures also shine during the winter months. The three climate-based conservatories take on new life, said Susan Farrington, a horticulturist.

The Shoenberg Temperate House is an oasis of the Mediterranean in the midst of the Midwest. The House features plant species from warm, dry places of the world. Plants begin to blossom between January and March, Farrington said.

The Linnean House opened in 1882 and is the oldest continuously operating display conservatory west of the Mississippi, Farrington said. The rose-like shrubs, camellias, start blooming in December and are at their finest in February and March.

The Climatron is always a popular Garden destination. One of the first geodesic dome conservatories in the country, the Climatron is a living tropical rain forest display. Even when snow is falling outside, the steamy dome is filled with streams, waterfalls, tropical plants and animals.

"All three places are wonderful to visit during the winter months," she said.

Admission is $5 for visitors and $3 for seniors age 65 and older. Many attractions are included in the price of admission, though some require additional fees. St. Louis city and county residents may enjoy the Garden for free before noon on Wednesdays and Saturdays.
